FIRE DAMAGE—Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana, left, talks with Sherri Smith about the destruction of her mobile home by fire early Friday morning. Smith and her two daughters escaped the blaze unharmed but the trailer was a total lost. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

Bay woman, children escape fire, lose home

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Bay St. Louis woman and her two children have escaped unharmed from a fire that destroyed their mobile home early Friday morning. Sherri Smith of 863 Chiniche Street and her daughters Cherie, 5, and Mandy, 8, were asleep in a back bedroom of the trailer when the fire started at about 12:30 a.m.

Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana determined that the fire was accidental and probably started from an electrical cause, which he is still investigating with the assistance of Firefighter Louis Prendergast.

The fire apparently started in the kitchen area and rendered the 14-foot by 70-foot trailer and contents a total loss.

The bedroom was at the opposite end of the trailer and sustained slightly less damage than the rest of the house, the chief said.

"If they would not have had that back door, they would have had a harder time getting out," he commented.

Smith told Lizana later Friday morning that she woke up and smelled smoke, but that she thought what really caused her to awaken was a noxious odor that she believes came from the contents of some aerosol cans in the kitchen.

Smith got her two daughters out through a back door.

She said she ran next door to alert her her younger brother, 16-year-old Benny Nicholson, who called the fire department.

Her sister, Doris Nicholson, went back to the trailer with her and went inside the burning structure to retrieve Smith's purse and a few other items, while Smith kept her two sleepy children from wanderings back toward the house.

"Doris started tossing out the photographs that were in the living room and some of the things like that. If it weren't for her, Sherri wouldn't have any baby pictures left," said their mother, Dorothy Nicholson.

She said one chest of drawers full of clothing was not destroyed but the items are so scorched that only a few may be wearable.

The family needs size nine women's clothing and size five-anda-half shoes for Smith. The children need sizes five and six clothing and sizes seven and 12 shoes. All types of household items are also needed.

Anyone who would like to make a donation to the family should call 467-2142.

Firefighters responding to the fire included Lizana, Mike Willumitis, Shift Captain Alphonse Sheppard, Terry McCrory and volunteer Randy Fraley. One pumper truck was a seed

Rebos Club seeking new meeting quarters

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Members of the Repos Club are looking for new quarters.

The Rebos (sober spelled backwards) Club is a non-profit corporation, whose a primary purpose of providing a meeting place for alcoholics, their families, interested citizens and also for drug addicts.

For the past several years the club has provided meeting space in an unoccupied building on St. John Street owned by the Jaycees.

The Jaycees recently reorganized and now needs the St. John Street building for its own meetings and activities.

"We are very appreciative of the Jaycees for renting this place to us for the past 4-5 years at a very reasonable rate," according to Rebos President Joe K.

"But now we must look for a new place to rent while we get funds to buy a permanent building," he add-

Sharing the quarters will not work out on a permanent basis because of the frequency the Rebos Club has need of the building.

"We have as many as 80 regular meetings a month as well as other social functions at the St. John Street location," Joe K. said.

Attendance at these twice daily meetings ranges from six to 35. Groups meeting at the St. John Street location includes Alcoholics Anonymous, Alanon, Alateen, Adult Children of Alcoholics and Narcotics Anonymous.

Although the Rebos Club is comprised of 50 sober alcoholics as members, the facilities it provides are used by thousands of people from New Orleans to Pascagoula,

Joe K. said

"By providing a meeting place for these groups we are serving 150 to 200 people a week and we feel we are just getting started and will be of more service to the sober alcoholics, addicts and their families in the future," he said.

"The Rebos Club exists to serve these people's needs and we need community support and encouragement." Joe K. said.

"Although we need this support and encouragement so we can do what we feel must be done, we have to keep a low profile on the group itself because of the very nature of people we serve." he added.

people we serve," he added.
Joe K. said the group will be looking for a place similiar to the St.
John Street location which has 2,000 square feet of space including two meeting rooms, a kitchen area, bathrooms and adequate off-street

"We have looked at several places but nothing is settled at this time," he said.

In a letter to members when the group was in the process of incorporation Joe K. wrote, "We have seen in many that came through our doors, anxiety turned to serenity, failure turned into courage, frowns turned into smiles and hatred turned into love...it is in this we find our purpose."

"Now we have to continue our search for new quarters and continue to offer the same services to REBOS—Page 2A"

BEACH FACILITIES—George Phillips, right, Public Works director for the community of Gulf Shores, Ala. talks with Larry Seal, Hancock County engineer on Wednesday. Seal was inquiring about the tourist facilities at Gulf Shores, how they were constructed and the effect tourism has on the coastal community. Seal along with several members of the Hancock County Sand Beach Advisory Council made the trip to Gulf Shores and Perdido Key, Fla. to view facilities provided for tourists. Bay city council adopts stricter lease law ordinance

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK Dog owners in Bay St. Louis are now facing stiffer penalties for not following the city's lease laws.

The city council Tuesday adopted an ordinance to increase the penalties for violations of the city's animal laws.

Under the previous laws, persons refusing or failing to comply with lease laws faced fines of $5, for the first offense, $25 and $50 for the second and third offenses consecutive-

City ordinance No. 317, adopted Tuesday on an emergency basis allows for fines of $25, $50 and $75. Councilman Lisa Cowand said she proposed the ordinance because of reported incidents where people or other properly detained annimals have been approached, chased or attacked by dogs running free.

"The summer is almost here and children will be outside more and with stiffer penalties more people may properly restrain their dogs and prevent any further incidents,' she added.

"The previous fine of just $5 was like a slap on the wrist and more and more people had began to let their dogs run free," Cowand added.

There will be a Hancock County Blood Drawing Wednesday at the Waveland American Legion home, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

A goal of 100 units has been set for the drawing to be conducted by the American Red Cross, according to Lin Rutherford, who was contacting prospective doners last week.

Lin's brother John, who is the Hancock County Blood Bank chairman reports there is now a big need for blood.

The blood drawing will be held from 2 to 7 p.m. at the American Legion Post No. 77's home, Coleman Avenue behind Merchants Bank.

We know there are many folks who are regular doners, yet there is a need for new doners.

We hope everyone who can donate a unit of blood will do so.

On Wednesday, I was on a very interesting trip to Gulf Shores, Ala. and Perdido Key, Fla., as a member of the Hancock County Sand Beach Advisory Committee.

The reason for the trip was to view beach facilities in use on the Alabama and Florida beaches.

Advisory members making the trip included Clarice Gustin, Dorothy Sutton, Mary Caillier, and Janelle Kern, in addition to Larry Seal, Hancock County engineer.

Trip coordinator, Jeff Taylor, and members of Harrison County's Sand Beach Authority Technical Advisory Committee also made the trip in order to come back with some ideas to use on our beaches.

We are looking forward to some of the developments coming in Hancock County.

Thursday and Friday were sure very nice days with some very bright sunshine.

It has been sometime since we had two days in a row without rain.

I see several residents really getting their gardens together since the beautiful weather arrived even though the ground is still very wet.

I planted a few red potatos several weeks ago and they seem to be doing very well, and I am hoping to get in a few tomato and sweet pepper plants in the next few weeks.

Gardening is a hobby I really enjoy, a big problem is getting enough time to plant.

Showdown at the. State Capitol—and the people lose...again

There they stood, toe-to-toe, glaring at each other; it was showdown time at the State Capitol.

Lined up on one side were Mississippi's county supersivors, protecting their 1890-style of government, spitting in the eyes of those who would dare to disrupt their fiefdoms, defending one of the most wasteful forms of government in all America.

On the other side stood Mississippi's bold new House of Representatives, armed with the reforms necessary to bring county government to modern-day, efficient principles of management.

The sun was sinking; it was showdown time at the State Capitol.

And 68 members of the House backed down.

The House threw down its weapon-a strong, yet workable, mandatory county unit bill crafted by a hard-working crew from its County Affairs Committee—and backed away.

House members aren't the losers in this showdown at the State Capitol.

Mississippians are losers...again.

CHICKENPOX—WINTER'S SWAN SONG

Q. I've heard that chickenpox is most prevalent in March. Is there any way that I can prevent my three-year-old daughter from getting it?

A. Many parents are finding themselves confined to the house caring for a child who suffers from chickenpox when the long-awaited spring is just around the corner. More cases of chickenpox occur in late winter and early spring than at. any other time of year in northern regions of the United States.

Chickenpox is practically unavoidable and there's no reason for parents to try to protect a healthy child from getting the virus unles it would come at an inconvenient time. It might even be better for a child to get chickenpox at an. early age than later, because the severity of the disease increases with age. The virus may cause discomfort in a three-year-old child, but it can be a severe illness in an adolescent.

Odd as it may seem to seek out an infectious disease, many parents allow their children to be exposed to chickenpox just to "get it over with." When a child has the chickenpox, the body produces life-long antibodies to the virus, although occasionally it reemerges in later years as the shingles.

Schools and daycare centers are good breeding grounds for the chickenpox virus. The virus is spread not only by direct co but also by the sneezes and runny noses of children playing together

Chickenpox is one of the most easily spread childhood illnesses because it is airborne. Air currents can spread the disease, and a child doesn't have to be in the same room with one who is sick to contract the

A child can get the illness simply by walking into a room even as long as a day after someone with the illneess was present there.

A child is contagious one to two days before the rash first appears and until about seven days after the onset of the rash.

Children generally develop the infection between 14 and 21 days ater exposure, which is the usual incubation period.

They are not contagious during the incubation period until one to two days before the first skin eruption. Therefore, parents should be on the lookout for a rash about 12 days following exposure.

onset of the rash.

Most children have no symptoms, aside from the tell-tale chickenpox rash. The rash may first appear at any sight on the body and then spread to the face, scalp and uper parts of the arms and legs.

The rash may appear on the palms of the hands and soles of the feet and usually doesn't scab as the rash does on the remainder of the body. Each spot passes through several stages, and as the rash develops, not all ofthe spots look the same. Initially, the spot is flat and red.

Later, it thickens and becomes raised. Finally, the lesion forms a blister, eventually dries out and scabs over.

Some children with chickenpox don't feel ill, only itchy. It is very important to help children avoid scratching, so the blisters don't become infected or leave permanent scars. Keep the child's nails short. Bathe the child several times a day in lukewarm water. Dab Calamine lotion on the itchiest spots to help relieve the itching. Acetaminophen may be prescribed if the child has fever or pain. Don't give the child asprin because of its suspected link with Reye's syndrome, a rare but serious disease that may develop after chickenpox or influenza. Chickenpox rash can cover almost every inch of the skin and scalp, as well as hidden surfaces in the ears, nostrils, mouth and throat in severe cases.

inflamed, and the severe rash is accompanied by severe discomfort and often a high fever.

Chickenpox can cause adolescents and adults to become very ill. The virus can be deadly for a child who is chronically ill with an immunodeficiency disease such as leukemia. It also can cause serious birth defects or a miscarriage in rare cases, if contracted by a pregnant Researchers are working to perfect a vaccine against the chickenpox virus that may be introduced in the near future. Hopefully, chickenpox will soon be added to the growing list of diseases of the

Pet's feelings interpreted by human friend

5 April 1988 To the Editor The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Humans:

I am writing on behalf of myself and my friends. It saddens me to see my friends mistreated and abused.

You see, I am one of the lucky ones. My masters love me. They care about me and understand that I too, just as they do, need love and respect, as well as food and water.

When we're out riding I can't believe the things I see. Always, I see my friends laying on the side of the road-dead. As we drive that way again, days, weeks and sometimes months later, I see their bodies still there.

My human friends don't allow me to run the streets. I know it would break their heart to see my laving on the side of the road or wonder where I am and what I am doing.

I can never figure you humans out-when you hit one of us don't you feel anything? All it would take is a few minutes to make a call to the Humane Society or the Warden. If that doesn't work call your local police or sheriff.

Believe me, we wouldn't leave you on the side of the road to rot without trying to help you,

School personnel aid destitute mother of four

To the Editor The Sea Coast Echo Bay St. Louis

I would like to thank the teachers, teachers' aides and all the very kind employees at North Bay Elementary School who helped the Curtindale children have a nice Christmas and made the move from a twoparent family to a single-parent family easier on the children.

A.D.C. for a family of five is less than $200. It took months before Mary was able to move into a small apartment with the help of a kind cousin, who gave her lots of moral support and helped her cope with the many "I don't haves."

What little Mary had was either sold at a yard sale or stolen. Even her little girl's dolls were sold.

Not many people are willing to have a mother and four children visit, much less stay with them. For three months or more she lived in a camper and visited with cousins, feeling much in the way and helpless-no money, no home and no means to obtain one.

She has no training in any field. She cannot drive and without glasses she can not see even to help her children with their homework, much less study the driving manual.

The thrift shop in Waveland gave her three pieces of clothing for each child. Her cousin and a good friend in Shoreline Park helped her get clothing for the children to start school with, and after almost five months she got Section 8 housing. The kind landlord who rented to her was real happy that she would be Four children in an upstairs apartment is not real great when you have always lived downstairs. While Mary was in this small apartment with mattresses on the floor and not enough mattresses, wondering what she would do for Christmas, furniture, clothing and just little things like bath soap and toothpaste, some very good-hearted teachers and workers from North Bay School, who are not over-paid or wealthy people, bought new shoes for each child, took the boys for haircuts, obtained mattresses and even a biké-a complete Christmas and clothes for the whole family. I cried because I had not known. where the items these kind people brought were going to come from and how. There is no agency that I could find that would house Mary and her children, nor have I found one that would help her to help herself when she had no driver's license.

If she had had a car, she could not have driven it; if she had had a job, it would have had to be within walking distance and compatible with school hours.

It warms my heart to see these children now in a nice home, one without all the furnishings or the curtains on the windows that she still needs, but one that is big enough: and with Medicaid that is allowing the children to get medical attention for the first time in their little lives for most of them.

It was real nice seeing Mary witha nice outfit on for Christmas and a smile to go with it. She still has a hard road ahead, but the impossible one is behind her. This kindness from all who gave in whatever way-the rides here and there, the help with the phone calls, the place to wash-was most appreciated and did not go unnoticed.

Thank you, Victoria Casanova

Net fishermen blamed for dead fish on beach

RESTROOM FACILITIES—Members of the Hancock and Harrison County Sand Beach Committees visited Gulf Shores, Ala. and Perdido Key, Fla. beaches Wednesday to view facilities for residents and visitors. This restroom facility at Gulf Shores is several years old id offers facilities for men and women as well as being equipped for handicapped persons. Hancock County's Board of Supervisors is currently replacing several box culverts and is looking at plans to start restoration of Beach Boulevard, one section at a time. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

It's that time of year when the fish start to wash up on the beaches.

On just one small part of beach in Waveland in approximately 100 yards, I counted over 70 dead fish on March 31.

If you listen to the net fishermen, the fish have committed suicide. It's just coincidence that the netting season has just started. The types of fish that wash up are types the fishermen don't want because they have very little commercial value.

Also, they say marks around the gills are not caused by nets. Why do our public officials let this happen? Who is to clean the beaches? Does this present a very good image to our visitors? It's a health problem and a waste. Tom Elliott

REVENTION GE FROM RLOCAL PARTMENT.

Far-reaching veterans' bill passed by House passed an expansive veterans' benefits package which contains amended versions of several measures carried over from the first session of the 100th Congress, primarily improvements in Veterans Administration health. care and compensation programs.

The package is the result of an effort to resolve differences between House and Senate versions of legislation approved in 1987.

Rep. Sonny Montgomery calls it "one of the most comprehensive veterans' bills we've ever considered.

H.R. 2616, as amended, the Veterans' Benefits and Services Act of 1988, "reaches into virtually every corner of veterans' benefits and services," said the chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee.

Montgomery believes that most of the House-passed provisions will be accepted by the Senate.

Two of the most anxiously-awaited reforms in the package are the atomic veterans and travel allowance provisions.

H.R. 2616 provides that a number of cancer-related disabilities will be presumed to be service-connected for compensation purposes for veterans who were onsite during the atmospheric detonation of a nuclear device, or who were exposed to ionizing radiation following the detonation of such devices in Japan, during the following World War II.

"We have waited long enough," said Montgomery. "We have concluded that exposure to radiation at certain levels will cause certain types of cancer. However, what is most difficult to establish for these veterans is the level of exposure. It probably will never be known. Therefore, we have decided that they should be given the benefit of the doubt, and they should be granted compensation for their serious disabilities.''

H.R. 2616 also relaxes eligibility requirements for the travel allowance paid by the Veterans Administration to veterans who need financial assistance to get to the nearest VA medical facility.

The VA cut the travel allowance account by half almost a year ago and implemented new restrictions. which left most veterans ineligible

The bill would reinstate the travel allowance for certain veterans who are service-connected, who have low incomes, who are scheduled for medical examinations for benefits purposes, or who require special modes of transportation.

Other major provisons of the bill

HEALTH CARE PROGRAMS

Eligibility for Outpatient Services-Requires the Veterans Administration to provide outpatient services to veterans for their service-connected disabilities and to veterans rated 50 percent or greater for any disability. In addition, the VA would be required to provide outpatient care to veterans rated with 30 or 40 percent disability levels and to low-income veterans ($9,940 or $11,866 for a veteran with one dependent) in preparation for, to obviate the need for, or as a followup to hospital stays.

POW Former Dental Care-Reduces from six months to 90 days the minimum internment required for eligibility for VA outpatient dental care for former prisoners fo war.

Health Care for Veterans Outside the United States-Authorizes treatment of service-connected disabilities at VA expense for veterans of U.S. military forces who are citizens of the Philippines or Canada or other countries as determined by the VA Administrator. Health Care for Veterans (Vet Centers)—Repeals requirement for transition of Vietnam veterans readjustment counseling centers from a program operated primarily in locations apart from VA medical facilities to a program operated in VA medical facilities. Instead, requires the development of a national plan regarding the future of each of 189 existing Vet Centers. Prohibits the VA from taking any action with respect to any center for 120 days after submission of the plan. Homeless Chronically Mentally Ill Veterans-Authorizes through fiscal year 1989 a pilot program of contract community-based residential care for homeless chronically mentally ill veterans and authorizes an appropriation of $6 million in funding for the program for each of fiscal years 1988 and 1989. Adult Day Health Care—Extends for three years (to Sept. 30, 1991) VA authority to provide adult day health care an alternative to nursing home

Confidentiality of Medical Records of, and Prohibition of Discrimination Against, Persons with HIV—Prohibits discrimination in VA hospital admission policies against persons with AIDS. Also tightens restrictions on disclosure of confidential medical records for such persons. AIDS Testing and Prevention—Requires the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to conduct an information and training program designed to educate veterans and VA health care personnel. Prohibits any widespread AIDS testing of VA hospital patients unless funds are specifically appropriated for that purpose, but requries the VA to offer test to veterans who are at high risk for infection.

Increase in Payments to State Veterans Homes—Increases by 19.3 percent the amount which VA contributes toward the care of veterans in State-run nursing homes and domiciliaries for veterans. The last increase in this payment was in 1984. The per diem rate for domiciliary care would be increased frm $7.30 to $8.70; the per diem rate for nursing home care would be increased from $17.05 to $20.35; and, the per diem rate for hospital care would be increased from $15.25 to $20.35.

ADMINISTRATION AND PERSONNEL

Bonuses to Recruit and Retain Nurses—Authorizes bonuses of up to $16,000 for a four-year period to recruit and retain nurses at VA medical facilities with critical nurse shortages. Also authorizes on-call pay and premium pay for work on Saturday.

Increased Pay for Pharmacists Occupational Thereapists—Authorizes increased pay at VA medical facilities where government pay for pharmacists and occupational therapists is not competitive with private-sector pay

Improved Education and Scholarship Program-Provides new authority to train personnel in nursing through a tuition reimbursement program. Also expands VA authority to provide scholarships to personnel in health care fields other than adapted housing allowance (for wheelchair-accessible homes) from $35,500 to $38,000 and the allowance to adapt homes for veterans who are visually impaired or who have lost the use of both hands because of service-connected causes from $6,000 to $6,500. Also increases the automobile assistance allowance from $5,000 to $5,500 and the serviceconnected burial allowance from $1,100 to $1,500.

Presumptions that Certain Disabilities are Serviceconnected-Presumes that lupus erythematosus, if 10 percent or more disabling within one year of service, and certain diseases of former prisoners of war, are serviceconnected for compensation pur-

Improvements Relating to National Cemeteries-Modifies certain laws affecting the operation of National Cemeteries and the American Battle Monuments Commission.

MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

Child Care Services at VA Facilities-Authorizes the VA to provide space, custodial services and utilities free of charge in order to promote the operation of child care centers at VA medical centers. Also authorizes a fee sufficient to cover all other costs associated with the operation of each center. Requires the Veterans' Canteen Service to manage the centers. Sequestration Modifications-Exempts from any future sequestration order (automatic, across-the-board cuts) under the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction measure vocational training benefits for serviceconnected disabled veterans and educational benefits for dependents and survivors of service-connected disabled veterans Limitation on Transfer of VA Property to Other Agencies—Prohibits transfer of any VA property declared by the Administrator to be excess unless proposal has previously been submitted to the Congress within the President's budget.

New administrative position filled

A new administrative position created in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District two weeks ago has been filled through reassignment of W.J. Cameron.

Cameron, presently the principal of Bay Junior High School and a 29-year veteran in the school district, was selected for the job by Superintendent of Education Roger Oge', who announced the appointment on Friday, said the job is neither a promotion nor a demotion for Cameron and that only his duties will change. His status and pay will remain the same.

The duties of the new position include but are not limited to supervision of transportation, janitorial and maintenance; attendance officer in charge of attendance reports and improvement efforts; recruiting, assigning and training substitute teachers; and serving as payroll officer for the high school and junior Oge' said the new principal will' work under his direct supervision but it has not yet been determined where his office will be located.

He said Cameron was assigned to the job because "it's best to always place a person where you can use his strengths.' The other administrative assignments have not been made. Oge' said he has the authority to make those appointments without having to submit them for school board approval.

Newspaper search continues

JACKSON- The search continues for historically valuable newspapers as the staff of the Mississippi Newspaper Project attempts to ·locate every existing issue of newspapers published in the state.

The staff has surveyed newspapers in libaries, universities, newspaper offices, archieves and courthouses. They are now searching for issues of newspapers in private collections and in local historical societies.

Dale Foster, consultant to Mississippi Department of Archives and History and project coordinator. said, "We are particularly interested in locating copies of newspapers we have not found elsewhere in the state. Since 1800, when the first newspaper in Mississippi was published, about 2.100 newspapers have been printed in the state. Of these, we have yet to locate issues of 400 titles. Many of these may be in the hands of individual collectors or in local historical society collections.'

After newspapers are located and cataloged, they will be microfilmed to insure that the valuable information contained in the papers is preserved for future research. Anyone who has newspapers or who has information about the location of newspapers should call Dale Foster at 359-1424 or contact their local

Black twins to be ordained Catholic priests

April 16 will mark a first in the history of the Catholic Church in the United States.

Chester and Charles Smith, identical black twin brothers, will be ordained Catholic missionary priests in the Society of the Divine Word at Divine Word International Chapel in Techny, Ill.

The twins were born on May 3,

"But we don't always agree," Chester added, "It bothered me at times that people would call me twin. It took a while to realize that really couldn't tell us apart. We knew we were very different and couldn't understand why it didn't show at first glance."

The Smith family lived on South-make our contribution to the community." Chester continued: "She prayed a lot and often quoted Scripture. She people who didn't know us very well told us over and over again that when we faced problems and difficulties, we could reach out to God.

Her strong faith was passed on to us. We also saw how dedicated she was to the church."

DEACONS CHARLES AND CHESTER SMITH Trained at St. Augustine Seminary

1959. Their mother, Mrs. Mae Ruth Smith recalls: "I had lost a set of twins in my first pregnancy and I never expected that I'd have twins again. I wondered what I would do with two babies."

She did just fine. She made sure that each one was treated as an individual, with different likes, dislikes and personalities. "I couldn't resist the temptation to dress them alike sometimes. But mostly, I let them chose what they wanted to wear. They were definitely as different as night and day even though other people couldn't tell them apart."

Charles agrees. "We were always close. I'd have to say that today, he's my pest irienu. about anything."

Prairie Avenue in Chicago, not far from Corpus Christi Catholic a Church. "I would often take the kids to the playground behind the church," Mrs. Smith remembered.

"The Franciscans who were at Corpus Christi reminded me of St. Peter or Paul. They were very friendly and would always greet us or stop and talk. I also noticed that the children in the Catholic school didn't seem as mean as other kids, so when Chester and Charlie went into first grade, I enrolled them at Corpus Christi." Two years later, the family moved to the Altgeld Gardens Public Housing Project on the city's far south side. "There was a Catholic Church there. I went to the pa Lady of the Gardens and told him I wanted to enroll Chester and Charlie and their sister and brother in the school. The twins were in third grade then; Marcheta second, and Kermit in first." What influenced the two youngsters to start thinking about priesthood? Charlie spoke first. The first big influence was our mother. She worked in the community as a social worker and family counselor. No matter what time, day or night, she was always willing to be there to help others. She impressed on us that we had to reach out and "The next powerful influence was Fr. Ed Delaney, one of the young Divine Word Missionary priests in the parish," Charles related.

"Here was a white man, out in the community, playing football with us kids and going door to door to visit families. Everyone in the neighborhood knew him. Fr. Ed was there whenever people needed him," Charles said.

"At times, I'd see him bring food to someone who didn't have any. But mostly, what he brought to people was joy. He'd go into a house and he'd come out and everybody would be smiling and laughing. To see people in the Gardens smile and laugh like that was amazing," he con-

"It's important to remember," Chester broke in, "the late 60's was a time of much tension between black and white. The priests and nuns were the only white people we ever saw. All around us, we heard that white folks were bad news. Yet here was a white man, a priest, who didn't seem to notice the color of a person's skin. All he wanted was to be there when people needed him. That really made me look at priesthood. I thought to myself, I'd like to be able to bring that same kind of joy and happiness to others."

CALL 467-6311

When Chester and Charlie were in seventh grade, Fr. Delaney drove them to Divine Word Seminary in Techny, Ill. near Chicago's northern suburbs

Chester recalls, "That was the first time we spent any time with white kids. It was an educational experience, I was almost shocked that white folks would talk with us. We slept in the same big dorm room, ate the same food, played games together. It was really culture shock and opened our eyes to a world much bigger than we had ever experienc-

Charles continued, "What I remember is thinking what an incredible thing it was that all of us could sit in chapel and pray together, all praying to the same

The Smith brothers also visited the Divine Word Seminary High School in East Troy, Wisc. They shared a fascination with this group of priests and brothers who signed the initials S.V.D. behind their names. They knew the priests in their parish but they wanted to see what the rest were like.

"We were both thinking about going to the seminary for high school, but we didn't tell each other. We made our decisions independently. Each of us was surprised that the other wanted to go," Charles recollected.

"I wanted to check out dedicating my life to the people of God. I'm not sure I thought about priesthood. I. just knew that I wanted to be of service to others.'

Chester also remembered those first days away from home at the seminary.

"The biggest impact for me was the feeling of family that came alive in the student body. We were from different backgrounds, cultures, the city and the farm and yet we all lived, studied, worked, played and prayed together. The more I experienced, the more I wanted to stay. My role model was a black priest, Fr. Tony Clark. He seemed so happy. I wanted to be like him when

'All the priests and brothers on the staff were always willing to help. They were firm but very loving. To see them spend so much time and be so concerned for us really helped build my confidence. What our mother had told us over and over again was verified by the SVD priests and brothers. I am black, and from a poor area. But its okay to be who I am because God don't make junk. Our four years in high school gave us the space and opportunity to grow and really look at our

"When we went to Divine Word College in Epworth, Iowa we became teachers as well as learners. There were few other blacks. It wasn't always easy but we were forced to really look at who we were as black men and what it meant to be black in the SVD and in the Catholic Church," Chester continued.

"We came to realize that we didn't have to apologize for being black or Catholic. Another Black priest, Fr. Len Oliver, the superior really walked with us. He was very supportive and affirming. He listened, challenged us, and helped us develop our spirituality. He encouraged us to go ahead, be black, be proud, but to be SVD and Catholic too. He showed us that we bring a great gift to the com-

The year spent in novitiate at Bay St. Louis after graduating from college was very profound.

Charles explained, "We arrived at the seminary in Bay St. Louis and knew we were standing on hallowed ground. Fifty years before Divine Word Missionaries had opened the first seminary in the United States for the training of blacks to be priests. We were inspired as we heard stories of Fr. Wade and met Fathers Rousseve and Burgess, who were in the first class of blacks to be ordained in 1933. It was like a kid seeing Michael Jordan for the first time. I was humbled yet encouraged to think that I could also be a priest like them. I was proud to be joining the same society that had prophetically called and trained blacks for leadership in the Catholic Church decades before most of the church was open to a black clergy."

Chester spoke next. "We came home to Chicago to finish our seminary training at a very exciting time. Harold Washington had been elected the first black Mayor of Chicago, Mayor Washington had a vision, not only for the black community but for all the people. He dedicated himself to breaking down racism, individualism and sexism. He grew up poor in Chicago and yet he made it and had a great impact. That gave me hope and made me realize what I can do to give hope, encouragement and inspiration to

"I'm excited about my assignment to St. Anselm's Parish in Chicago, I see my role there as a liberator. I hope to focus on the youth. Despite family problems, unemployment, drug abuse and gangs, I am committed to bringing God's liberating Word to our people."

Charles concluded, "I've been assigned to Los Angeles, where I'll work among minorities. Like Chester, I hope to be a sign of liberation and hope, fighting for peace and justice. Our culture faces a real spiritual bankruptcy. Our task is to help to uplift through a holistic ministry dealing with the physical, emotional and spiritual. Whatever our ministry, we need to have a liberating effect on people just as
